

Segment: High-Income Urban Builders

Business segment description for life insurance policy cohorts. Use this document to infer assignment logic and produce explainable segment labels.

- Typical policyholders are age 35-55, live in urban markets, have above-average estimated income, and hold moderate-to-high coverage.
- They often buy through agents or brokers and may respond well to coverage optimization rather than lapse-prevention messaging.
- High confidence signals include income estimate above 120,000, face amount above 500,000, urbanicity = urban, and current age between 35 and 55.
